Two track records were broken last Saturday as the duPont Manual High school, Louisville, ran up a total of 55 points to win the 15th annual Kentucky High School track meet at the University, leading the Holmes High thinsles, Covington, to the tape by the narrow margin of eight points. Louisville Male was third with 29 points.

Best, Manual ace, cleared the bar in the high jump at six feet one-half inch, to break the old record of five feet eleven inches set by Lacy, Male, last year. Paxton, Louisville Male, traveled the 880-yard run in the time of 2:01.1 to break the old record of 2:04.6, held by Isaacs of Berea Academy.

Bill Gaiser, representing Holmes, was high point man, taking first in the 220-yard dash, second in the 100 and third in the broad jump for a total of 12 points. He was followed closely by Jones, Holmes, who won first place in the shot and discus; Best, Manual, who took first in the high and broad jumps; and Ratterman, Manual, who came first in the high and low hurdles, all three garnering 10 points.

The only events in which Manual failed to place were the discus, javelin, and the 880-yard run. They took first in the broad and high jumps, and high and low hurdles; second in the pole vault, high and low hurdles, 220-yard dash, and the mile relay, third in the shot put, mile run, both sections of the 440-yard dash, and tied for fifth in the pole vault and high jump.

An exhibition race in the 120-yard high hurdles was staged by Doug Parrish, captain of the Kentucky varsity team, Louis Shields, Georgetown college, and Ben Willis, Kitten sprinter. Parrish won the event in the time of 15.5, with Shields second, and Willis, third.

The meet was sponsored by the Departments of Athletics and of the University extension, and was directed by Bernie Shively, Wildcat track coach. Chet Wynne, athletic director and head football coach at the University, was the starter.

The trophies for the meet were presented in the memory of the late John E. Madden, Lexington sportsman, and former track star in his collegiate career at Lehigh university. Each point winner received a medal. The individual high point man was awarded a cup, the winning relay teams a cup, the winning coach a plaque and the winning coach a gold track shoe.

With two exceptions, an all-student cast, under the direction of Frank Fowler, presented last night the first performance of a smartly staged version of the Guignol's sixth play of the season, Sir James M. Barrie's "Peter Pan." The play will run throughout the week and a special children's matinee will be presented Saturday, May 19.

"Peter Pan" was written for Maude Adams in the title role and was a tremendous success several years ago. The movie version, starring Betty Bronson, also was extremely popular. To the best of our knowledge, Frank Willis is the second male actor ever to enact the role, Alexander Moissi having been the first man to play Peter Pan.

Since the success of the productions largely dependent upon the mechanics used in staging, much of the credit for the capably presented show must go to G. L. Crutcher, stage manager, Clarence Moore, electrician, and their assistants. Five sets, designed by Mr. Fowler, are used in the staging of "Peter Pan" and all have been executed effectively. In the same manner the lighting helps to create the buoyant atmosphere.

The cast of 27 persons is the second largest to be used this season, the cast of "Oedipus Rex" having outnumbered that of any Guignol production. The size of the cast, however, is the only manner in which these two plays compare. They are direct opposites in theme and tempo—the one, sombre, melancholy, tragic; the other, sparkling, exhilarating, possessing a touch of comedy.

WILDCATS LOSE
TO CINCY 3-TO-2Sixth Consecutive Loss For Big Blue; Morehead Will Play Kentucky at Eppings'
Ball Park Today

University of Cincinnati Bearcats again took toll of Coach Pat Devoreaux's Wildcats nine last Friday when they beat them 3 to 2 for the second consecutive time within a week.

It again was Evans, the Bearcats' right hand hurler, who set the Big Blue back on their heels. In last week's game, he allowed the Cats only three hits. In Friday's fracas he permitted them 11 blows, but even this was not enough to stop Cincinnati's onslaught.

Friday's game was the sixth consecutive game that the Wildcats have lost. They have only three more to play before the current season closes, which will be next Saturday.

This afternoon the Big Blue team will stack up against the Morehead team at Eppings' park for the second game of a two-game series. Morehead having beat the Cats 10-4 at Morehead. This game promises to be a bit more interesting than the last, inasmuch as the Wildcats seem to have acquired their batting eyes at last.

Thursday, the Kentucky boys will tackle Marshall college, who will journey here from Huntington for a return game, having defeated the Wildcats 10 to 9 a few weeks ago.

On Saturday, the Big Blue will travel to Louisville where they will engage the University of Louisville Cardinals for the second time this year. In the game that was played here, the Cardinals defeated the Wildcats 6 to 0.

Saturday's game will close the 1934 baseball season for Kentucky, and thus far the Cats have only won one game, and that was against the Eastern State Teachers college of Richmond.

IS JOE'S COMMENTCaptain-elect Has Played Two Years of Varsity
Competition

"Smoky Joe" Rupert, Catlettsburg, 200 pound All-Southern end, was elected captain of the Wildcat's 1934 football team at a meeting of the football squad held at 12:30 p. m. yesterday in McVey hall. He succeeds "Dutch" Kreuter of Newport, who also captained the team from an end position.

Upon receiving the honor Joe said, "I appreciate this very much and I wish to thank the boys for what they have done. They can depend on me to do my best for them and for the team."

Rupert is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences and is 21 years old. He is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity. He played end for four years on his high school team at Catlettsburg, and has played for three years at the University.

At the conclusion of the 1932 season the majority of sports writers named "Smoky Joe" an all-Southern end. He first sprang into prominence by his fine work in the Georgia Tech game of that year which Kentucky won 12 to 6. He kept up his outstanding work for the remainder of the season, reaching his peak in the Alabama game during which his end was never rounded, the Alabama backs losing yardage on his end.

The notification of the election for captain came as a surprise to members of the squad. This is the first time that such a long interval has elapsed between the end of the regular football season and the election of a captain.

KYIAN DUE TO BE RELEASED TODAYNew Yearbook Is Slated to Make Its Appearance
at Post Office this Morning

HAS POPULAR THEME

With its title and decorative horse head embossed in silver on a forest green suede cloth binding, the 1934 yearbook, carrying out a typical Kentucky theme, is due to make its appearance this morning.

Fresh from the bindery, a group of the 700 annuals which have been printed are expected to be released this morning through the University post office. Binding of the annual has been in charge of the Falls City Bindery, Louisville, following the completion of the printing of the books on The Kernel presses.

The chief sporting interest of the state, horse racing, has made an interesting motif which has been carefully delineated between the attractive covers of the annual.

Illustrations in keeping with the theme of a typical race have been worked out by William Frazer for the 12 division pages of the 300-page 1934 Kentuckian. These pages are green, printed in silver, contrasting with the remaining pages which are printed in black ink on ivory-white enameled paper, with the exception of the introductory section which is printed in green and decorated with silver.

Dedication of the annual was made to C. R. Melcher, professor emeritus, who had served as dean of men at the University for 19 years. The dedication was written by Lorraine Leper.

Full length reproductions of photographs of the Kentuckian beauty queen and her six attendants adorn a special part of the feature section. Included also in this section are 12 pages of annotated snapshots of students and faculty members. Also in another section of the book are other pages of snapshots. Of special interest are connotations on students and faculty which are found in the last section of the book.

CWENS, ODK OFFER CUPS

One of the largest inter-fraternity sings ever held at the University will be staged at 7:15 o'clock tonight in the amphitheater at Memorial hall with nine sororities and ten fraternities entered in the competition.

Much interest has been shown in the sing this year and the committee in charge has made a special effort in getting three competent music critics to act as judges. The judges selected were: Paul Mathews, supervisor of music at Henry Clay High school; Ellen Blanding, superintendent of music at Paris High school, and Susan Howard, staff member of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

Each fraternity and sorority will sing two songs. One of the songs, "Alma Mater," will be sung by each of the contesting groups, and the contestants are allowed to pick one of their own songs to sing as the second number.

In case of inclement weather, the sing will be held in Memorial hall. The sponsors of the sing, Omicron Delta Kappa and Cwens, are offering a gold loving cup to the winners of the fraternity and sorority divisions.

By virtue of its third win Company "C" obtains permanent possession of the cup which was donated by the Seaboard and Blade national honorary military fraternity of the University of Indiana.

The companies from Ohio State and the University of Illinois were second and third respectively in the drill competition which was the feature of a two-day program including exhibition drills, a banquet and dance. The Universities of Dayton and Indiana also were represented.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT
WINNERS NAMEDNoel Somerset, Wins Singles;
Robinson-Roberts, K. M. I.,
Declared Champions in Doubles Division

Robert Noel, Somerset, displayed a consistent, powerful tennis game to sweep aside his opponents in four matches by decisive scores and win the fourth annual Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament, held at the University Friday and Saturday. Vincent Robinson and Bob Roberts, representing the Kentucky Military Institute, experienced slightly more difficulty in two of their matches but took the final encounter in easy style from Buddy Panther and Bruce Platt, Male, to win the championship in the double division.

In the deciding singles match, Noel met Norman Downard of St. Xavier. Downard showed signs of fatigue and was at a decided disadvantage because of the difficulty which he had experienced in eliminating Mason Jacoby, University High, in the semi-final round, 7-9, 6-3, 6-4.

The loss of the first two sets seemed to dishearten the St. X player and he never threatened in the third and final set. Noel continued his deadly returns and took the set 6-1. Throughout the tournament matches Noel exhibited a powerful drive and an uncanny ability to return difficult shots.

In the championship double match the K.M.I. boys were easily superior to the smaller Male contestants but won only after several close games. The final scores were 6-1, 6-3, 6-2. The champions were greatly aided by the service of Robinson, one of the best players in the tournament.

The K.M.I. double team found difficult opponents in the second and semi-final rounds after defeating Berea Academy's entrants easily in (Continued on Page Four)

AN APPEAL FOR EDUCATION

At such a perilous time as this, alarm, voiced by newspapers concerning the gravity of problems confronting government of the state might cause widespread fear. However, there is every reason for sounding an alarm now, not because of any immediate danger, but because of impending disaster to Kentucky and its University should her legislators fail to solve the difficult questions that will arise during the special session of the legislature.

As matters now stand, and if some thing is not done to relieve the situation, it is quite probable that the University of Kentucky may have difficulty in reopening next fall. The legislature has not yet appropriated the money necessary to guarantee continuance, and this is one of the major issues to be discussed during the special session. The outcome is, of course, not known; what the result should be and undoubtedly will be obvious.

It is deplorable that the educational system of any state must be made to suffer. What can be done? Unquestionably, some means of taxation must be devised whereby the state budget can be balanced, taking into consideration at the same time the need for, not merely any form of taxation, but taxation that will be fair, as well as providing the necessary capital.

Here are some facts in the case: in 1929 the state income was $25,000,000 annually, excluding the road departmental tax; in 1931 this amount had decreased to $14,000,000 a year; in 1934 a drop to $12,000,000 is presaged. By July of last year the government of the state had spent approximately $750,000 that was not in the treasury. This deficit was met by issuing state warrants at five per cent interest. If it had not been necessary to use this means of raising revenue the state would have saved more than $1,000,000.

Governor Laffoon has threatened, that if the legislature this year does not find a way to meet expenses, he will close in part or entirely certain state departments in order to keep them within their budgets. At present the state government is managed by 83 departments. There cannot be abolished any one of these without changing the constitution.

Our aged, musty constitution probably will remain long in its present form. If this be true, other means for raising revenue must be determined. The possibility of taxing liquor has been suggested, but such a tax would be insufficient to balance the lop-sided budget. A sales tax or an increase in the income tax might be the remedy. Either would be fair and impartial.

In any event, at all cost, the financial status of the University should be made secure. The extreme need for running an institution whereon depends to a large degree the Kentucky of the future, the unfortunate and serious consequences a contrary step would bring about, rests heavily on the hearts of many today. A closing of the University would mark the downfall of education in the state. This calamity should not, must not be!

OUR LITTLE THEATER

Some students evidently do not realize the value of the Guignol theater to the University. An organization sponsoring such high type productions deserves all the support students can muster.

Embodying the principles of the Little Theater movement, the Guignol theater came to the campus under the name of the Roman theater several years ago. After a few years Mr. Frank Fowler was appointed director and producer and has conducted productions since that time along the same plan with great success.

During the last five seasons, students and townspeople have been offered the best in current and early stage presentations. Such an outstanding organization, selecting only the best of talent, and delving with minute detail into all phases of operation, is a decided asset to the University, at home and abroad.

The Guignol theater is recognized as one of the best little theaters in the middle west. Why not patronize its distinctive presentations? Many of the plays presented are the equivalent to many hours spent in outside reading at the library; they are entertaining and are of cultural benefit.

DIPLOMAS

Graduating from an educational institution may not automatically place one in a worldly position in which financial returns and position are very good, but it does imbue one with that certain something that is indefinable, that something which gives one an attitude toward life and life's obligations which will eventually bring success and happiness.

Perhaps this statement is covering too large a scope. Technical knowledge may not be acquired to such an extent that the college graduates immediately can start using that knowledge to earn money, but they have developed in college that frame of mind and that openness to new ideas and progressive thinking which place them in that class of employees that will ultimately lead and decide questions of policy and execution.

A diploma signifies merely the end of formal education. As a diploma, it is not worth the price of the paper on which it is printed. Its value is in its meaning. For most college men and women who receive it, the diploma signifies a transformation from a green and somewhat crude freshman into a senior with developed ability and ambition to go out into the world and be a success.

Most certainly the college graduate is not perfect, but he is considerably nearer that mark than he would have been had he not attended a university. There is a gulf between the man who has not attended a university and the man who has. This is not to say that to be a success one must have a diploma. The college man, generally speaking, simply has attained something that the non-college man has not.

If anyone cares for cold facts, statistics will show that university graduates are more successful in after life than those who do not attend. It probably is true that the type of person who attends a university is a higher type than the average, but there can be no doubt that a great deal of the credit must go to the benefits of the four years spent in the halls of learning.

Only after attending college does one actually realize the benefits that may be derived. Before coming to college, there is an expectation and hope for the best. After graduation, one is certain that he has done the right thing—in fact, there is extreme satisfaction in knowing that one has spent four years so wisely.

BASEBALL

The University baseball team in its present season has lost six of seven games played. The Wildcats have played the game well but have been unable to connect so as to win. Even though the losses have been many, students are still behind the team and its coach because it is a part of the University, if for no other reason.

It is a well known fact that the public supports a winning team, and the succession of losses on the part of the Wildcats has not served to raise attendance figures. However, two other things which probably have a greater bearing on the attendance than the losses are the absence of the national pastime from the campus for two years and the distance from the campus that the games are played.

Students have not become accustomed to attending baseball games in the short time it has been with us. Those students on the campus who were here when the sport was discontinued are now seniors or graduate students and they are in the minority. Give the populace of the campus a little more time to become "collegiate baseball minded" and a larger attendance will be noted.

With regard to the distance the games are played from the campus, the Eppings ball park at the western city limit is such a distance that many of the students who do not have automobiles do not care to walk that far. If the diamond on Stoll field was re-worked and bleachers erected, the accessibility of the field certainly would bring about a larger attendance. There is no reason why the games could not be played on Stoll field since no admission charge is made and since no other organized sport requires that field this late in the year.

Stoll field would be a much more suitable place for the games, and although it is too late this year to change, when the team is organized next spring, the change in location of the playing field would be advisable.

JEST AMONG US

We feel safe in predicting that, though snow and cold and sleet arrive, there will be plenty perspiring students on the campus the last of next week.

Visitors at the Farmers' ball Saturday night are of the opinion that some University city-dwellers actually out-farmed the farmers.

With school so nearly finished for the semester, we are greatly relieved to know that we only owe the business office $12 for tuition.

The scandal writers have done their work well; about the only one whose name has not appeared in their column is the Kernel proof-reader.

CHALLENGE CHATS...

Conducted By
SYLVESTER FORD

There is something which is more lasting than material success, more vital than private security, and more faithful than public approbation. It is the essence of justice, forever mediating between two opposing ideals, the one egotistic, the other altruistic, which precept is ever on the side of right; it is: "That part of the cosmic purpose which is to be discovered on this planet waits for its further advance upon the voluntary cooperation of mankind."

We have thought in the past, and many students are still thinking, that success is the getting of wealth, or of great power, so that one may achieve social position and the praise of his fellow-men. One comes to college filled with the idea that after graduation he will step into a lucrative position and become a leader of men. In preparing for this, many students seek high positions on the campus—seek these positions for the reward and glory which they, themselves, may receive, and not for the service they can render to the students, or the University which is making possible their preparation.

If we are students, the last three years should have taught us that wealth and power cannot be depended upon to bring success. The rich have become poor, and the most powerful have fallen. No matter how good you may be in your profession or vocation, you have to live your life—and life at its best is real success. This kind of a life can only be found through the inner resources. Man's cooperation with the divine purpose will bring this power. One cannot cooperate with God unless he becomes a lover of his fellow-men and dedicates his life to the rendering of service for the common good. This is the only way to real wealth, this is the only way to real power. The great Teacher of Galilee tells us, "If any man would be great among you, let him become servant of all."

Stanley Jones says, "We are standing at the place where destiny is made." If the students of this generation do not catch a new vision—a vision of self-forgetfulness for the greater goal—our country will continue with its periods of depressions and failures, and society will not make the advancement which should be made in these days of enlightenment.

The real student must answer the call of the deepest that is within him—the call that comes from the heart-guided by the mind. Then through partnership with God we shall find a solution to life's problems. Selfishness cannot choose the highest good. Success is found through choosing the best.

"O world, thou chooseth not the better part; It is not wisdom to be only wise And on the inward vision close the eyes, But it is wisdom to believe the heart."

Will you help to further the cosmic purpose?

The Girl with the Rose

We're singing our swan song with this edition of the paper... There's only one more regular edition and our friend, Girdler, is slinging the mud in that five star final... This week's rose girl has us wondering... There are many outstanding co-eds that we have missed... In order to complete a "Rose Couple" we toss this week's flower to that petite and charming little Kadee pleb, Phyllis Caskey.

We have received several little items through the mail since our last column... One note was from our good friend, Lemuel Q. Twitletwitch, (whom ever he may be) who informs us that he knows plenty on us... Well... Lem ole' boy, we'll skip the matter from now on out.

One of the notes was marked the "Chisel of the Week" and wanted to know, "If Phidelt Doss Reid knows who had a late date with his pinnee after the Delta Chi dance and if she went to the dance with one of his dear brothers?"

Dossett informs us that this is nothing new... It seems that said courtie dashes off to Danville for the week-end and attends the Phidelt spring formal at Centre... Yea, Mr. Reid is griping.

She'll Conner You, Staples

From the latest reports it would seem that "Angel" Reager, the innocent of the Kappa lodge, is losing her grip. We are informed (through a letter) that Delt Johnny Staples has had a change of heart and is now courting one of the sisters of the lodge... Yea, she's the Kappa beauty queen and her name is Dawson.

Maybe that Accounts for Worried Expression at the Dance

Another note asked "If Sigmaky Hargis Hughes knows who walked out with his Ohio date at the Delta Chi dance and did not bother to bring her back so that Hargis could take her home?"

Well—That's Rich

Kay J. D. Haggard was seen leaving the Kay lodge Saturday night with an egg and a towel... (What initiation were you going to J. D.?)

Are You Losing Your Power, "Woman's Home Companion"?

We wonder why the smiling face of James Hennigan is no longer seen around on the corner at Lime and Maxwell?

Surviving romance: That of Kappa "Tippy" Calhoun and Sigmaky Mat McLaughlin... (It's been going for several years.)

We have been asked to find out... Where did Sigmaky Harold Bush leave his pocket book recently?... Bush is not able to account for his wallet being in Elizo Barbleux's car. Well... Harold, you were responsible for what was in the wallet... You had better put a chain on it, 'cause evidence is evidence and people are quick to jump at conclusions.

Where Were Your Shoes, B. A.?

Kappa Betty Ann Pennington recently was seen sitting on top of a piano on the third floor of one of the campus buildings sans her shoes... How did you finally get your shoes from the other side of that "closed" door, Betty Ann?

An hour spent on the river Sunday night with our snooping partner, Walt Girdler and "Shotgun" Wedding (the Kay from Centre) brings forth many interesting items... Many loving couples were seen paddling their own canoes up and down the Kentucky... Among the group we sighted Bentley Sampson and Gerry Garvey... Pooch Mansfield and Mary Lally... Johnny Brockridge and Josie Tums (with Jess Symphon acting as chaperone)... and several other couples.

Some authorities contend that Hugh Adcock followed Babe Burns to the Phidelt dance at Centre Friday night... What about it Hugh?

Doss Reid is earnestly wondering how the hole came about in the top

Conducted by DOROTHY WHALEN

The Pulitzer Prize winners for 1933, outstanding among whom are Caroline Miller for her novel "Lamb in His Bosom" and Sidney Kingsley for his play, "Men in White" have been announced at Columbia University.

The award for distinguished service as a newspaper correspondent was won by Frederick T. Birehall of The New York Times. The selection was based on his stories sent from Europe.

The prize for the best book of the year on the history of the United States went to Herbert Agar, an attaché at the American Embassy in London, for "The People's Choice", and the award in American biography was won by Tyler Dennett of Princeton University with "John Hay."

The poetry prize was presented to Robert Hillier of Harvard for his "Collected Verse."

Other prizes in the field of journalism were given:

For meritorious public service, The Medford Mail Tribune.

For distinguished editorial writing, E. P. Chase, editor of The Atlantic News Telegraph.

For outstanding work as a reporter, Royce Brier of the San Francisco Chronicle.

The novel, "Lamb in His Bosom" by Caroline Miller, is a competent and freshly written story of the pre-Civil War Georgia backwoods. It is not up to the level of Elizabeth Madox Robert's "The Time of Man," but those who hunger to see the seasons pass in literature can't go wrong with this year's winner.

"Lamb in His Bosom" ran second in the Harper Prize novel contest to Paul Horgan's "The Fault of Angels," which may prove nothing beyond an agrarian bias somewhere among the Pulitzer Judges.

Since we have heard so much about "Anthony Adverse," many wonder why it is not the prize winner. A book that has sold some 400,000 copies in a year must be pretty near a saturation point anyway, with no sales help needed from the adventitious interference of Fate.

In history, Herbert Agar's "The

of his car and how the windshield was broken all in one night... A survey of the situation reveals that Phidelt Dick Chauvet and Tridelt Scotty Chambers were driving Reid's car the night that these two accidents occurred... Have you two snoopers any explanation to make?

Kay Pleb Gamble Dick has joined the ranks of the snoopers and is learning to become a keyhole peeper. So has Carolyn Hurst... But she wasn't peeping into a keyhole to get her moniker of "peeper"... Ask her, she'll tell... Maybe?

People's Choice," which is a biographical study of our Presidents, may well have deserved the prize by default. But it is, judged by the highest standards, a confused book that dwindles to a weak close.

Tyler Dennett has contributed a good, solid contribution to the American Political Leaders series in his biography "John Hay." If we failed to be thrilled by it, no doubt the reason is that John Hay has never seemed to us a great man. Benjamin Stollings has called him "a starched shirt, beautifully stuffed and laundered."

The prize-winning play, "Men in White," by Sidney Kingsley is always interesting, although the structure seems an inferior job. Some advocated that "Mary of Scotland" should have won the prize, but, while "Men in White" breaks at times, "Mary of Scotland" offends by its absolutely unhistorical Mary.

The poetry prize, as you know, was awarded to Robert Hillier. Although a very competent poet, Mr. Hillier is unexciting.

The town of Gettysburg has become a very special market for MacKinlay Kantor's novel about the Civil war battle there, "Long Remember." The book is being featured in the stores where thousands of visitors are expected on memorial Day to hear President Roosevelt's address. The title of the book is taken from Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Did you know that Kathleen Norris' books have produced gross sales of $723,994 over bookstores' counters in original trade editions?

It is interesting to note that Lloyd George at 70 is hard at work at his estate in England finishing the third and fourth volumes of his "War Memoirs," which will be published in the autumn. The military campaigns of 1917 and America's entrance in the World War will receive special attention in the third volume.

why-Luckies are All-Ways
kind to your throat

The difference between cigarettes is the difference between what goes into them and how they are put together.

Luckies use only the clean, center leaves, for these are the mildest leaves—they taste better. That's why farmers are paid higher prices for them. And Luckies get the benefit of the famous process—"It's toasted"—for your throat protection.

And every Lucky is round, firm and fully packed. That's why Luckies "keep in condition"—that's why you'll find that Luckies do not dry out—an important point to every smoker.

Yes, Luckies are always in all-ways kind to your throat.

VARSITY NETMEN SINK CINCY 5 TO 4

Coach Downing's varsity tennis squad journeyed to Cincinnati Thursday afternoon and took their tennis match from the University of Cincinnati by a score of 5 to 4. It was the first win in tennis that a Kentucky team has been able to take from the Queen City school since the teams began playing in 1925. The Cincinnati team was comprised of veterans of one or more years of varsity competition, while the Kentucky squad is composed almost entirely of sophomores.

Those making the trip were Coach Downing, Jenkins, Bishop, Yost, Tullock, Moore, Rush, Weed, Stahr, Randall and Manager Cosse. They left Lexington Thursday morning and returned in the evening.

Scores of the single matches follow: Fox defeated Jenkins, 6-2, 6-3; Uible defeated Bishop, 8-6, 6-1; Austin defeated Yost, 7-5, 6-4; Tullock defeated Bucholtz, 9-7, 6-3; Moore defeated Baxter, 6-2, 6-2; Rush defeated Luedke, 6-4, 7-5.

In the doubles, Fox and Uible defeated Jenkins and Weed, 6-1, 6-2; Moore and Stahr defeated Austin and Saunders, 6-4, 6-3, and Yost and Tullock defeated Shapiro and Rattermack, 6-4, 7-5.

Two games and a tentative match are included on this week's program for the tennis squad. They meet Chattanooga on the home courts tomorrow at 2 p. m. and the University of Tennessee here at the same time Saturday. Final negotiations for the match with the University of Louisville, Thursday at Louisville, have not been completed.

"Peter Pan" Play Is Well Received

Mr. Fowler, realizing the necessity of giving to the public a variety of types of entertainment, has employed successfully during the current season sophisticated comedy in "When Ladies Meet," period drama in "Mrs. Moonlight," Greek tragedy in "Oedipus Rex," mystery in "What the Gulls Knew," the eternal triangle in "The Animal Kingdom," and fantasy in "Peter Pan." The Guignol boasts a most successful record, and "Peter Pan" easily is on a par with past productions. It undoubtedly will be rated by many as the most enjoyable play of the season.

The curtain rises on a darkened stage as the author, played by David Salyers, sits to the left front of his drawing room, and reads the story—that of a small boy who wishes always to remain so. As he ceases reading, the curtain of the inner stage rises and the action takes place, the first scene being the nursery of the Darling family in London.

Mary Dantzer and Frank Willis, as Wendy Darling and Peter Pan respectively, share honors for the outstanding performances. There is a sparkle to their characterizations that makes them vibrant, and they enact their roles so adroitly as to make them irrepressibly convincing.

George White Fithian, who, along with LeRoy Miles, forms the non-student element, is excellent as Captain Hook, the bold, bad pirate chieftain. His characterization is capably presented and is refreshing and spontaneous. Bruce Shepherd is the best of the pirate band and introduces humor into all of his scenes. The other pirates are Jimmie Drennen, Carlisle Ames, John Davis Haggard, Gordon Symptom, and Bill Huston.

With the exception of Peter, Wendy, and Captain Hook, all of the roles are comparatively small and it is rather difficult to comment on each individual. All play their parts splendidly and there seems to be no instance of miscasting. LeRoy Miles and Ernestine Lyon as Mr. and Mrs. Darling, and Virginia Robinson and Tommie Nichols as Michael and John Darling enact their roles effectively.

Nana, the dog who nurses the children, played by Frances Kerr is quite amusing. Tinker Bell, the fairy that is Peter's constant companion, is presented by means of a spotlight and her voice by a tiny bell. Ruth Kay Schneider and Thelma Goodrich are the "off-stage" Tinker Bell. Liza, the maid, is played by Sara Louise Cundiff.

The lost boys of the "Never Land" (who happen to be all girls) are Gertrude Stein, Clara Hughes, Lenarue Cawood, Kitty Mahan, Helen Rich, and Betty Moffett. These happy, carefree, frolicsome children become inhabitants of the "Never Land" when they fall out of their perambulators when their nurses' backs were turned and were not claimed in five days. The two Indians, Tiger Lily and Great Big Little Panther, are played by Celanire Paradis and Jane Turner. The crocodile, arch-enemy of Captain Hook, is Thelma Goodrich.

Too much praise cannot be given to Mildred Schaffner, costume mistress, and her staff, in as much as the costumes are authentic and add tremendously to the interest of the show. Much credit also must go to Ruth Kay Schneider who is assistant director, and to Edna Brumagen who is in charge of properties.

High School Tennis Tournament Closes

The first start, Friday, Clark county was the opposition in the second round and was defeated by 7-5, 6-3 counts. The champions advanced to the finals by defeating Eminence 6-1, 8-6.

Noel, the new champion, is a senior at the Somerset High school. Last year he won the singles championship of the Central Kentucky conference and, teamed with Tom Brown, took the doubles championship of the conference. These same two boys also won the junior Bluegrass doubles tournament for two consecutive years.

Twenty-one teams were originally entered in the tournament but the field was cut to 17 when four of the teams failed to send representatives.

At the conclusion of the matches Saturday afternoon, Coach Downing presented the three winners with small silver loving cups. In his presentation speech, Coach Downing announced the winners of the three previous tournaments, congratulated the winners of the present contests, and thanked all of those who had cooperated to make the fourth tournament a success.

FROSH TENNIS TEAM TO PLAY HIGHLANDS

The University's freshman tennis team will journey today to Fort Thomas where they will engage in their second match of the season with the Highland High school team. Led by O'Brien, former Highland star, the freshman tennis team is one of the best in many years.

Last week in the first game of the season, the freshmen defeated Asbury college in a practice game by a score of 5 to 4. Those making the trip were: O'Brien, Donohue, Lucian, Randall, Montgomery, Dunn and Lucian.

Down where they grow tobacco..in most places Chesterfield is the largest-selling cigarette

—what does that mean?

—it takes good things to make good things.

—the mild ripe tobaccos we buy for Chesterfield mean milder better taste.

—the way they are made means Chesterfields burn right and smoke cool.

—it means that down where they grow tobacco folks know that mild ripe tobaccos are bought for Chesterfields.

And because Chesterfields are made of the right kinds of tobacco, it is a milder cigarette, a cigarette that tastes better.

There is no substitute for mild, ripe tobacco.
